3.a. Data sources

National level statistical reporting mode.

3.b. Data collection method

The national statistical reporting regime was issued under Decree No. 60/2018/ND-CP dated April 20, 2018. According to regulations, Vietnam Social Insurance collects the form "00.3N/BCB-BHXH - Number of people entitled to social insurance, unemployment insurance, health insurance". The report is calculated starting from January 1 to the end of December 31. Periodically, Vietnam Social Insurance aggregates data from Social Security of provinces/cities directly under the Central Government and sends it to the General. Department of Statistic. After that, the General Statistics Office appraises the data according to the provisions of the Statistics Law and publishes the data on "Number of people receiving social insurance, health insurance and unemployment insurance".

4.a. Rationale

This indicator reflects the results of the implementation of social welfare policies for those participating in social insurance, health insurance and unemployment insurance.

5. Data availability and disaggregation

Figures are published annually from 2010-2018.

Detailed data for each subgroup has not been published.

(Published source: Statistical Yearbook of the General Statistics Office).

6. Comparability/deviation from international standards

Similar to VSDGI 1.2.1, this indicator reflects part of the global SDG target "1.3.1. Proportion of population covered by social protection floors/systems, by sex, distinguishing children, unemployed persons, older persons, persons with disabilities, pregnant women, newborns, work-injury victims and the poor and the vulnerable".

Due to the specificity of Vietnam, there is no clear concept of the term "social protection". Social protection is close to the concept of social assistance, which is one of the three basic pillars of the welfare system. With the purpose of overcoming risks, social assistance together with social insurance have the function of reducing risks, and proactive labor market policies to prevent risks for people. Therefore, to replace the global indicator 1.3.1, Vietnam uses this indicator along with some related indicators of Vietnam such as:

1.2.1. Number of people paying social insurance, health insurance and unemployment insurance

1.2.3. Number of people receiving monthly social support in the community.

1.2.4. Number of people receiving unexpected social support

1.2.5. Number of people being concentratedly raised in social protection establishments and social houses
